Red Cross Issues Call To Fill Local Blood Bank Deficit

The Regional Blood Bank will make its first visit of the new year to Carmel on Thursday, March 8.

As Fund Drive activities will be occupying all facilities of the Chapter House, the Blood Bank will be held in the American Legion Hall, between 10:00 o'clock in the morning and 1:30 in the afternoon.

The Blood Bank is starting this year with a deficit of 35 pints of blood, that amount having been used in local hospitals over and above the amount collected.

Negative types of blood are again in perilously short supply, and during the flood emergency had to be flown in from Portland and Yakima. In spite of closed roads, wash-outs and destroyed bridges, all requests for blood were promptly filled by Red Cross custodians.

Everyone over eighteen, and in good health, is urged to contact the Red Cross for an appointment, and to come on March 8. The phone number is Carmel 7-6921.

Guild Announces Play Theatre In The Ground

The Forest Theater-in-the-Ground on Mountain View Street will be the setting on March 9 for J. B. Priestley's Dangerous Corner, presented by the Forest Theater Guild under the direction of Cole Weston.

The cast includes Gertrude Chappell, Virginia Frank, Edgar Pye, Hilary Urwick, Helen Weston, Ron Bostwick and Betsy Pye.

Stage manager is Jack James, decor by Erica Franke, and the wardrobe in charge of Hazel McClellan. Props are by Gwen Bevard.

Carmel High Wins C.C.A.L. B-Division Championship Title

By tripping Gonzales High, 49 to 48, last Friday night at the tiny Spartan hoop pavilion, Carmel High's varsity basketball squad gained the undisputed championship of the CCAL B-Division. Winner of ten out of their twelve league games, the Padre cagers finished one game in front of second-place Gilroy and enjoyed a two-game advantage over third-place Gonzales. The league crucial at Gonzales was a bitterly fought contest all the way and wasn't decided until the final seconds. Tight defensive pressure and accuracy from the free-throw line were the big factors in Carmel's victory over the big and aggressive Spartans.

Carmel's amazing lightweights put up a brilliant battle before losing a hard-fought tilt to the swift-running Gonzales Babes. This one was touch-and-go right down to the wire with the lead changing hands twelve times during the contest. The fast-improving Carmel lights were severely whipped by Gonzales the first time around but came back Friday night to nearly upset the heavily favored valley lads.

The all-important varsity clash got off to a slow start as both teams tensed-up before the packed house of screaming basketball fans. Carmel enjoyed an 8-3 lead midway of the first quarter as Dick Jennings, George Wightman, and Mike Mosolf found the range for field goals, but the Padres were blowing easy set shots and the hard-trying Spartans were guilty of fundamental violations which lost the ball to the grateful Padres. Some excellent hook-shooting by Joe Jimenez and a pair of nifty sets by Ron Garten put the hosts ahead at the first quarter

NINTH ANNUAL CARMEL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT Today's Games

4:30 — Pacific Grove vs. Gonzales.
6:00 — Fremont (Sunnyvale) vs. Gilroy.

7:30 — Monterey vs. King City.
9:00 — Carmel vs. Gustine.

Friday, March 2 — Semi-finals of Carmel Tournament, 4:30 p.m.
Saturday, March 3 — Carmel Tournament Finals, 6:00 p.m.

All games are played at Carmel High School Gym.

Carmel's annual basketball festival which is replete with thrilling games, spirited competition, loads of fun, and outstanding sportsmanship gets underway this afternoon at 4:30 when the Pacific Grove Breakers square off against the Gonzales Spartans. This year's tournament shapes up as one of the best ever staged at the Carmel pavilion as all teams have the equipment to win the championship and upsets could be the rule rather than the exception.

A look at the first round pairings shows Gonzales slightly favored over Pacific Grove but the Breakers gave the Spartans a whale of a battle in their last meeting and a win for PG would not be too much of a surprise. The Fremont-Gilroy game should be one of the best in the entire tournament as both teams are manned by smooth experienced hoopsters who are thoroughly experienced in tournament play. Fremont has a front line which averages 6-4 and all three are good scorers. Gilroy has been outmanned on the boards all season but the clever Mustangs play such scientific basketball they have been able to overcome the lack of height. Led by Ron Leonti, one of the most colorful basketball players ever to perform in the CCAL, the Mustangs must be rated equal favorites to win the whole tournament. The 7:30 game between Monterey and King City matches two of the best centers in

Planners Say 'No' To Carillon For All Saints' Church

First action of unanimously re-elected Planning Commission Chairman Frank Putnam yesterday afternoon was to withdraw from all discussion on the application of the Vestry of All Saints' Church for permission to install a carillon in the church. Putnam, a member of the vestry, appointed Mrs. Florence Josselyn to preside in his place.

At the end of an hour's deliberation on aspects of the church application the Planning Commission split evenly 3-3 on the vote and the carillon, not receiving the necessary five votes of approval, cannot be installed. Voting for the carillon were Commissioners, Lee Gottfried, Herbert Blank and George Willox and against Commissioners Mrs. Dora Comstock, Mrs. Florence Josselyn and Mrs. Gladys Kiplinger.

Eben Whittlesey, representing All Saints', stated that a survey had been made of 40 residents in the immediate area affected by the carillon and they had raised no opposition to the proposed playing of carillon music outside the church. Two letters definitely opposing the carillon were read to the Commission by Secretary Larry Rose, the first received from Enid B., E. S., and H. B. Somerville and the second from Cordelia Gilman, all residents of the immediate neighborhood of the church.

Acting Chairman Florence Josselyn felt that a survey of residents concerning a church matter was not always true in its results as "people were reluctant to speak

200 Doctors Here To Ponder The Auto Accident Victim

Medical and surgical treatment for victims of serious automobile accidents will be a feature discussion when 200 physicians meet at the Golden Bough Theater this weekend for a regional post graduate session. The two day conclave starts today and a joint dinner meeting with the Monterey County Medical Society will be held tonight at La Playa Hotel. The principal speaker will be James E. Ludlum, Los Angeles, legal counsel for the California Hospital Association.

Arrangements for the sessions for doctors from Monterey, Santa Cruz, San Benito, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties are under the direction of Dr. C. A. Broadbush, Carmel, director of postgraduate studies for the California Medical Association, the sponsoring organization.

Regional planning committee includes Dr. G. Horace Goshaw, Dr. Allen C. Mitchell and Dr. Ernest Simard of Monterey and Dr. J. B. McCarthy of Carmel.

Visiting Egyptian Charges Zionists Have Powerful Influence On U.S. Press

BY ELIZABETH LAWRENCE

A visitor from the world's current powder keg—the explosive Middle East—is in Carmel this week. He is Moussa Sabry Kamel, of Cairo, Egypt, newspaper editor, lawyer, journalist and pre-revolutionary member of the underground who served a year in jail for writing and distributing a 400 page book which revealed the corruption within the now defunct government of former King Farouk.

The personable, 32 year old Egyptian newspaperman is on a three months tour of the United States as participant in the Foreign Leader Program of the International Education Exchange Service of the U. S. Department of State.

Seated in the sunny patio of his hotel, clad in well tailored grey flannels, and smoking American cigarettes, the young Egyptian journalist-lawyer, who speaks fluent English, said:

"I am here to 'feel' the American way of life, my aim is to see democracy in action. Already I have seen evidence of it in two striking ways: First, in the attitude of the individual. Even a small, 12-year-old American boy is very confident; he has a strongly individual personality. He can oppose anything he wishes; he can object; he can protest. Second, I have seen it in the freedom of the

Disasters Boost Red Cross Quota, Drive Starts Monday

Monday the American Red Cross starts its annual membership and fund drive.

The many disasters of the past year have drained the emergency fund. As a result, Carmel's quota for the national fund has been raised 10%.

Advance gifts have been encouragingly generous, and on Monday morning, door-to-door workers will attempt to visit every house in the area served by Carmel Chapter.

The local services benefitted by these contributions include training in first aid and water safety, assistance to the military personnel and their families, maintenance of an ambulance and the blood program.

the area, the Mustang's Joe Cozby and the Toreador's Dale Ray. Cozby topped all the scorers in last year's tournament and led the B-Division shooters this season while Ray is one of the best scorers in the CCAL A-Division. Thursday's final game matches the two small schools of the tournament, host Carmel and the Gustine Indians. Carmel holds the 1956 B-Division championship while the visiting Gustine aggregation is one of the most feared teams in the San Joaquin Valley League. Led by Dwight Davenport and Art Salles, both of whom hit consistently in the twenties, the Indians are noted for their fast-break attack which is designed to wear down the opposition. Coach Jerry Hedlin rates this year's Gustine quintet as his best and gives them a good chance to upset the Padres.

Tournament action continues Friday night with the losers of the Monterey-King City and Carmel-Gustine games tipping off at 4:30. At 6:00 o'clock, the losers of the Pacific Grove-Gonzales and Fremont-Gilroy games play in the consolation bracket. Winners of the Monterey King City and Carmel-Gustine games meet at 7:30, and at 9:00 o'clock, the winners of the Pacific Grove-Gonzales and Fremont-Gilroy games square off to see which team makes the finals.

Saturday night's competition will decide who takes home the trophies and awards for third place, consolation winner, and Tournament Champion. Pacific Grove won the tournament last year and holds a leg on the coveted Peter Ferrante Perpetual Trophy which becomes the property of the first team to win the tournament three times. Monterey, Gilroy, and Fremont also hold legs on the trophy. For the first time in the Carmel Tournament, an all-tournament team will be chosen and the five players chosen will take home trophies designating them all-tourney honors.

Bargain rate admission prices prevail for the 11-game tournament as a ticket for all the games goes for $1.50 adult and .75 student. Single day tickets are $1.00 adult and .50 student.

THREE PADRES ON ALL-LEAGUE BASKETBALL SQUAD

At a meeting of coaches and sportswriters in Watsonville Tuesday night, two Carmel High varsity basketball players were voted all-league honors and one member of the Padre lightweight club earned a place on the mythical limited team. George Wightman and Mike Mosolf picked off a center and guard spot on the varsity squad while Teddy Childers was a top selection for one of the lightweight guard spots.

This is the fourth time that Wightman has been honored by a place on an All-CCAL team. As a freshman big George made the all-league team as a lightweight and in his next three years he made the squad as a varsity center. This is Mosolf's second time on an all-league hoop squad, once as a lightweight and now as a varsity guard. Ted Childers' all-league recognition comes in his senior year and was earned by a tremendous shooting display in his last three games.

In the voting for an all-league varsity squad, Joe Cozby of King City received the greatest number of votes closely followed by Carmel's Mike Mosolf who was the second choice. Completing the seven-man first squad were Ron Gatten (Gonzales), Ralph Hemphill (Live Oak), Ron Leonti (Gilroy), George Wightman (Carmel), and Bob Mazzuca (Gilroy). The second-team lineup included Jim Fisher intermission, 12 to 11. Both teams traded baskets evenly in the second period until the final minute when the Spartans stole two wild passes to take a halftime advantage of 20-16. At one time in a wild third period, Gonzales surged to a 7-point lead and appeared capable of holding the advantage over the inept-shooting Carmel lads. However, in the final heat, Carmel caught fire and knotted the count with three minutes to go. Mike Mosolf and Jim Konrad put the Padres in front with a pair of field goals and George Wightman clinched the victory with a pair of free throws. The hard-trying Spartans made a valiant bid to salvage the victory in the final 45-seconds as they stole the ball for a pair of lay-in field goals and just barely missed a field goal as the final gun sounded.

George Wightman's 16-point effort paced the Carmel offense and the lanky pivotman turned in a sound defensive game against Joe Bass, Spartan rebound ace. A fine come-through performance by Tom Peyton, Carmel's sophomore forward, was a vital factor in the coveted victory. The cool redhead snatched four clutch rebounds in the last two minutes to give the Padres ball control and potted a field goal and two free throws to provide valuable points in Carmel's last quarter surge.

Teddy Childers, senior lightweight guard, had his best night of the season, swishing through 23 points before fouling out in the late stages of the lightweight tilt. The whole lightweight team turned in an aggressive effort and looked like a team which would be a perennial contender if the season were just starting.

Playing their last league game for Carmel High were seniors: Captain Dick Jennings, George Wightman, Bill McCormack, Mike Mosolf, Jim Konrad, Dave Gray, Bob Wise, Mervin Sutton, and lightweight Ted Childers. Back for another season of play will be Tom Peyton, Bob Durbrow, Charley Dawson, and Clyde Klammann.

Most of these all-league performers will be seen in Carmel's Invitational Tournament which starts today.

Helen Pierce

Miss Helen M. Pierce died on Saturday in a Los Gatos rest home where she had been a patient since 1952. She would have been 91 years old on March 23.

Formerly Miss Pierce lived in Carmel on Lincoln Street in the house which she and her sister, Miss Minnie and Miss Harriett Pierce, purchased when they came here to live in 1930 from Plainville, Connecticut.

Following the death of her sisters Miss Helen Pierce continued to live in the house until 1952 when she sold it to the Carmel Foundation and moved to Los Gatos. Her former home is now known as Town House and is used as a community meeting place for older people.

She was a member of the congregation of the Church of the Wayfarer during her Carmel residence.

Survivors are two nieces, Mrs. L. H. Earle of Los Gatos and Mrs. James L. McConaughy of Hartford, Connecticut.

A memorial service for Miss Pierce will be held in Bristol, Connecticut, where her ashes are being sent for interment in the family plot.

Review Of The Spoilers New Show At First Theatre

By KIPPY STUART

Opening night at California's First Theatre was also opening night for the heavens. Rain poured and the audience applause doubled for thunder. Rhea Diveley, Director of the First Theatre, assembled an excellent cast for the melodrama, and from start to finish the play moved with smooth precision.

Marjorie Munk, top flight of the Gold Coasters, has the ability to be the demure lass, as well as an accomplished dead-pan artist. In the Olio Marjorie's rendition of that old Alaskan Sea Chanty, Emmer Jane, was one of the evening's pleasures. There is small necessity in reviewing Alex Olivetti. He is outstanding as Master of Ceremonies, and in the Spoilers, Alex gave us a sneak preview of the handsome grey haired gentleman he will be in the far, far future. Russel Eddy is a natural born comedian. Russel gets a laugh by merely stepping upon the stage. Russel Eddy and Ray Jones, the two tough comics, succeed in amusing the audience and generally mixing up the characters. Madeleine Hicks was resplendent in costumes executed by Rhoda Johnson. Rhoda is an outstanding couturiere. Her period costumes are always correct and the lavish materials supplied by the Denny-Watrous management are crisp and fresh. I believe that Madeleine Hicks likes to play naughty parts. In the Spoilers, Madeleine was the robust Madam of the Dance Hall Girls, and she surely looked the part.

I am definitely prejudiced in the favor of William Quiett. He has done some outstanding work in our Peninsula theaters and his name is significant. Quiet portrayal is William's forte. He never over-plays and his personality is that of quiet dignity. William is a handsome and personable leading man. Walter Roney, a newcomer to me, gave an excellent performance. Cast as the Bronco Kid, dealer at the gambling table, Walter moved about the stage with smooth elegance. In the Olio, he gave evidence of his versatility as a member of Barbara Nonnenman's singing skit "What do you want to make those eyes at me for". Barbara's voice, full and colorful, filled the auditorium and went over with hearty applause.

Lirio Gilbert, a young lady from Puerto Rico, was the gay soubrette in the Olio. Her number, "Winkin' at me" was directed toward the male audience as with accusing finger. Lirio sang to one after another of the embarrassed gentlemen. Her costume of green satin, swathed in black frou-frou, and her sparkling jewels were something to behold. Marian Baker was an intriguing "Lil", the toughie Dance Hall girl. Cecil Haskell, the traditional silent barkeep; and Wayne Edwards dashed back and forth between characters. One minute Wayne was a Sea Captain, and the next he appeared as the dashing Captain of foot troops.

The crux of the melodrama, The Spoilers, lies in the realistic rough and tumble bar fight. This battle between John Wright and William Quiet was so realistic, so dangerous looking, that I for one, hoped somebody would throw in the towel. How those two young men, tossing each other all over the place, survived to play another day, defeats me. I found myself listening for broken bones and shuddering in my fear of real blood. It might be a good idea for the rest of us to retain the originator and trainer of the combatants, Ken Green, as instructor for our own potential battles. Another too-realistic portrayal was that of the inebriate, billed as "The Ruffian." Charles Scardina, as this ruffian, suddenly appeared from nowhere and gave so realistic a performance of a grizzled miner on the loose, that I feared... but oh no... only cold tea at this Spoiler's bar. Good supporting characters in the melodrama were Clifford Anderson, as Judge Stillman and William Cassel as the young lawyer. Another highlight of the evening was the lyric voice of Bob Vinton. Bo's voice was a delight, as background music for the amusing Olio number, "Totem Tom Tom", and in the skit "Honey Boy".

The rousing Grand Finale of the Olio held some new surprises. William Cassel on the banjo... and I honestly heard some one ask what kind of an instrument that banjo was... and a further surprise, a girl-drummer. Le Verne Seeman wielded her drumsticks with gay insouciance. She joined the audience and she and her drum had front row seat. Guided by the skill of Susan Lee at the piano, and kept in step by drum and banjo, away went the Gold Coast Troopers with their traditional "Good Night Ladies."

The sets for the Spoilers, creations of Charles Thomas, were excellent and in keeping with their First Lieutenant Mark G. Brislawn, son of Mrs. M. G. Brislawn of Carmel, won first prize of $50 in the recent Tactical Air Command's Photo Contest. His winning entry was a color shot of Central Washington State autumn coloring entitled, Autumn Splendor. The first prize check was presented to him by Brigadier General G. F. McGuire, commander of Larson Air Force Base, where Lieutenant Brislawn is stationed.

Lieutenant Brislawn visited his mother at Christmas time and showed her similar shots of Washington's autumn foliage. He expects to be released from the Air Force in November after three years service. Then he is planning a career in the airplane industry having graduated from Kansas State College with a degree in Mechanical Engineering immediately prior to his Air Force service.

Alaskan setting. Behind the inconspicuous lighting devices was Kay Knudsen, with her finger always on the proper switch.

The Spoilers, another top selection of the Denny-Watrous Management, bids fair to enjoy a long run. If you are in for a night of care-free nonsense and sheer fun, don't miss this melodrama. The Spoilers will be presented each Friday and Saturday nights at California's First Theatre.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone.

THEY HAD A GOOD TIME

Dick and Ada Bird took a bunch of Audubonites on a picnic Monday night on the Screen Tour program at Sunset Auditorium. Movie taking, to those two is fun, as could be told by their actions (either one or both were in many of the sequences). Dick has a dry humor which was appreciated. There was none of the cloak and dagger stalking or hiding in blinds. Newfoundland as they showed it is truly a "smiling land". No scenery to make one "Oh" or "Ah" but pleasant, friendly country. It was a real travelogue with shots of flowers, birds, animals in keeping with the Audubon tradition. The audience was "with" them at all times and really enjoyed the trip.

Imagine a country where, frogs, snakes, skunks, moose have to be imported. No poison ivy either. Nothing was said about but it is a safe bet that they have mosquitos as big as bombers. The birds love their country and show it in such a way that we too loved it. —A. S.

Egypt Editor Charges Zionists Have Powerful Influence On U.S. Press

In Washington the Cairo newspaper editor saw democracy in action in one of its most potent forms. He attended two of Secretary of State Dulles' press conferences—one of them the session at which Mr. Dulles answered correspondents' questions regarding his now very well known "brink of war" article. "I think Mr. Dulles was in an extremely unfortunate situation," admits Mr. Kamel. "The correspondents told me after the press conference that they felt they had been very hard on him." However, the Egyptian editor, who is a Christian himself, added sympathetically, "I feel that Mr. Dulles is a Christian man."

Mr. Kamel's admiration of America's freedom of the press has one strong reservation. He feels that "Zionist influence" on "certain segments" of our press has "prevented the American people from gaining a true picture of Middle Eastern affairs." "I found that 95% of the American people know nothing about the Arab-Israel problem because of Zionist propaganda," he stated. "Some of the most important newspapers in the U. S. are influenced by the Zionists. In America, the Zionists control many of the biggest companies, the most powerful corporations, the largest industries. A comparatively small Zionist minority is enabled to dominate American foreign policy. And this is the fault of former President Truman during whose administration the state of Israel was set up. I don't say that the idea of Zionism is Truman's belief. But I do think he was under strong pressure from the Zionists, and that their influence is particularly strong in about five American states—California and New York, particularly."

In his assessment of the U. S.'s role in the now explosive Middle East situation, the Cairo editor places blame squarely on the shoulders of the British. "The U. S. has no aims in the Middle East. You are not a colonial power. You need nothing from the Middle East. The British are different. They want to take everything... give nothing. The United States is the victim of Britain in that area. Before the last war the U. S. had no relations with the Middle East. All relations of the Arab states were with the British and the French. But British policy has succeeded in guiding American foreign policy for the benefit of the British."

As to the role of the United Nations in the problem, Mr. Kamel added, "The U.N. is under pressure from three big countries, France, Great Britain and the U.S.—and in the Middle East the U.S. is following British policy."

The Egyptian newspaperman was vigorous in his denunciation of the aims and objectives of Israel. "Every new building put up in Israel today is a tower or a fortress," he declared. "A fortification to be used in war against us. Every policy of the Israel government is centered on war. We feel that they are going to attack us very soon—early this spring, possibly even next month, in March."

In regard to Egypt's recent receipt of arms from Czechoslovakia, Mr. Kamel said, "Preponderance of population on the Arab side does not mean superiority in arms. Israel, today, with her 1,600,000 population, is stronger militarily than the entire Arab world. Israel believes also that it will take us a year or longer to train our troops in the use of the new weapons just received. That is another reason we believe Israel will attack us early this year."

Mr. Kamel does not feel that Premier Nasser is at all beguiled by Russian offers of assistance and friendship. "Russia is alert to a crisis," he said. "The U.S.S.R. will pose as defenders of 'freedom.'" But as to the Egyptian position in the matter of accepting arms from the U.S.S.R., the Cairo newspaperman stated it this way. "What do you do when you are attacked? You fight! You defend yourself! And we shall defend ourselves." He mentioned the prolonged negotiations between Premier Nasser and the U.S. which, even after a considerable period, did not result in arms for Egypt.

"If the U.S. doesn't give more arms to Israel, war may be avoided," Mr. Kamel stated. "The Arab countries will derive no benefit from declaring war. We wish only to protect our borders. We do not wish to attack. We do not want war. We need every moment of time to develop our own country."

He mentioned the plight of the one million Arabs displaced from their homes by Israel, and left to live in tents, without adequate food, clothing, or means of livelihood. Mr. Kamel indicated that this still unresolved situation is adding yet more fuel to the crisis revolving about the creation of an Israel state on the borders of the Arab world.

The Egyptian visitor spoke warmly of the advances toward freedom and progress within his country under the Nasser government. Cairo University maintains colleges of medicine, architecture, engineering, law, and the arts, with faculties comprised of native professors, Europeans and some Americans. Of Mr. Kamel's four sisters, two are studying law, one has been graduated in literature and English, another from the college of commerce, and now works in manufacturing. Upon request he displayed photographs of his father, now retired from a government post, and of his mother. And from his wallet, he drew a portrait of a pretty, dark-eyed girl, Miss Mona ('Hope' in Arabic) Abo-zed, who, he admitted was typical of the modern young Egyptian woman of today. Miss Abo-zed was graduated from Cairo University, where she majored in art and music, and twice she has made European tours. Egyptian women, in large cities like Alexandria and Cairo rapidly are gaining equality with men. They will vote for the first time next June, although, as yet, no Egyptian woman may hold elective office.

Mr. Kamel, a highly eligible bachelor, has encountered for the first time the American girl during his U. S. visit. After a bit of probing, he admitted that he found the American woman a bit lacking in femininity, and the graces long valued by men of older civilizations. "It is the result of the industrial revolution," he said sadly. (This viewpoint may be caused, however, by certain comparisons made with the lovely portrait that Mr. Kamel carries in his wallet in true American fashion.)

Early this week the Cairo journalist visited the Salinas Valley, where he observed American methods of agricultural production. He has also visited Big Sur, Monterey and scenic areas of the Peninsula.

As to Carmel—"You live in paradise," he says fervently, and admits that at the Egyptian embassy in Washington a diplomat friend warned him that he must not leave America without seeing Carmel. That part of his mission, at least, has been accomplished.

Janet Fehring Breaks Leg

Ted Fehring took three of his daughters, Janet, Jean and Joy, to Yosemite to ski last weekend. Unfortunately Janet, the eldest, fell and broke her leg, and had to remain in Yosemite Valley this week as a patient in the Lewis Memorial Hospital. The break, a spiral fracture of the left leg just above the ankle, could not be set immediately as it requires a period of traction. If the traction has been sufficiently effective for the bone to be set and the leg put in a cast, Janet will be able to come home this weekend.

Gay and Marcia In England

Mrs. Edward Kuster and her daughter, Marcia, arrived in England ten days ago in the midst of some of the bitterest winter weather that residents of the British Isles have experienced in many years. Marcia immediately wired her father: "Journey topping, jolly cold". She and her mother will be in England for a year visiting relatives and friends in Mrs. Kuster's native land. Mr. Kuster hopes to join them for several months during this time.

Carmel Portraits . . .

By DAISY BOSTICK

From a 4-H Club in Nebraska, where as a boy he tended his small square of ground, to being a guide for a party touring "darkest" Africa was a long distance for Roland Haack, who owns and manages The Gardener's Friend Store in Carmel. And many interesting things happened along the way.

As a young man Haack became associated with a Travel Bureau with headquarters in San Francisco and a branch in Los Angeles. There were glamorous trips to the South Pacific. The romance of Samoa, Fiji Islands, New Caledonia, Australia.

"How about Tahiti?" I inquired.

"Never could get there. You know those people aren't too anxious for tourists. Something like Carmel, at least in that respect." Then he added: "But they're opening up now. Soon—I could see anticipation in his eyes of what his next trip might be.

Mr. Haack had spent six years in Carmel with nothing more exciting than selling garden material when he was called in January of last year to conduct an African tour for a group of elderly retired people — the youngest being a youthful sixty-year-old.

His notice was short and his preparations limited. The man who was engaged to conduct the trip was obliged to give it up at the last minute because of illness in the family. When Haack was asked to substitute, he jumped with both feet into the project. The trip lasted for several months. It was an unusual group. Five men and four women, most of them retired government personnel. They were very congenial and they were good travelers taking the few inconveniences without complaints.

From the time they left New York they travelled by air, autos, trains and river boats, sometimes even walked and by the time they reached Cairo they had logged well over 15,000 miles. There they disbanded, some of them making side trips before returning home. They had toured the Union of South Africa, Northern and Southern Rhodesia, Belgian Congo, Uganda, Ethiopia, Kenya and the Egyptian Sudan.

They had flown over the snows of Kilimanjaro looking down into the bamboo forests which sheltered great bands of gorillas. At Johannesburg they went in freight elevators down into a gold mine 9500 feet below the surface. They inspected a diamond mine in Pretoria and spent three leisurely days traveling on the Nile. At various times they were surrounded by screaming baboons, cheetahs, giraffes, impales, lions, gnus, elands, elephants, flocks of zebras and at one time met a vicious Bull Cape buffalo.

Each night the party changed for dinner wherever they were. One night they arrived at a magnificent hotel in the city of Lusaka, North Rhodesia. It was done in Swedish Modern and decorated throughout. Marvelous color effects. Beautiful parquet floors. Waiters especially chosen among the natives for their good looks and elegant manners. On that night a party was being given and Mr. Haack's charges were not admitted as they were not equipped with full evening dress. Mr. Haack reminisces: "Just think: Hanging on to British tradition in that jungle! Isn't it wonderful?"

Another hotel was run by Italians and dinner was served in a romantic setting with wine, soft music and candle light.

When stopping places were far apart they packed their lunches and picnicked American style. Once when they could get lodging but no food they had to take supplies for three days.

One day when the rain was unusually heavy the party reached a stream where most of the bridges were washed out. The only one that would bear traffic was a railroad bridge. So with the help of the natives the autos containing the party were lifted and placed on a flat car and the nine men and women with their guide sat

LOWLAND MEADOW

*Green, green is the lowland meadow
With mountain water cutting through
Each new gorge as snow banks melt
With sun and fragrance as its cue.*

*Johnny-jump-ups, huckleberry,
Trilliums, the faintest hint
Of candy tuft in budding blossom,
And the pungent smell of mint.*

*Grasses that too long have lain
Overhung by snow bound tree
Assume their freedom once again
In the tufted lowland sea.*

—CLAIRE AVEN THOMSON.

LAST CANDLE

*It leans from life, yet warms her way
Like earth-held sun
Past hour of planet fall
Of golden eyed moonrise
Of spirit. Night-begun
Like flint of dawn, this ray
Prepares its noon, and kindles one
Whose other flame grows small.
O candle of new day,
Come light a flare of lily for her eyes!*

—MARGARET LEWIS ALBANESE.

BEFORE DAWN

*Bleak is the night and long
While slumber waits apart,
Refusing this lone heart,
These lips forlorn of song.*

*Deep is the night and slow
Whose gulf obscurely swarms
Mad, somber, faceless forms,
Blind masks of bale and woe.*

*The moon's late-risen ray
Through paling panes is shed.
From dreams uncomfited
I rouse before the day.*

*Now, ere the morning break,
Would that my head found rest
Upon your halcyon breast
To sleep, and not to wake.*

—CLARK ASHTON SMITH.

unperturbed and serene while the flat car carried them in safety across the raging torrent to the other side.

Possibly the most interesting and unusual experience the group had was at Johannesburg when natives from the Union of South Africa along with representatives from other countries gave their tribal dance. The costumes although abbreviated were colorful and the choreography was perfect. A native orchestra beat out the rhythm on hollowed logs, boards and pieces of metal. It was a long-remembered scene and during the celebration a gold belt was awarded to a man who had saved the life of another in the mines. Our group of sight-seers saw several other native dances on their trip.

The last leg of the journey was on the historic river Nile. The party boarded the steamer at Wadi Halfa in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. There was much noise and confusion. The heavily loaded camels and donkeys, natives in their flowing robes, mobs of people shouting to one another and scurrying about the deck. Two-decker barges were cabled to the boats. The lower deck carried large heavy freight such as automobiles. On the covered upper deck were passengers who just camped wherever they found space to spread their food, blankets and babies.

As they floated lazily down the river they saw just a thin line of vegetation on either side, an occasional palm, then nothing but sand and rock. After awhile came mud villages with square walls enclosing each family's land as we use hedges and fences. Black-garbed women moved noiselessly from shadow to shadow through the scorching sun. Mr. Haack likens it to a movie set.

On the first evening of their river trip. Mr. Haack met Mohammed, an Arabian salesman, headress and all. To pass the time Haack spent a few hours teaching English to the Arabian and by the end of the journey they became well acquainted. Later Mohammed showed up at the Semiramus hotel where Mr. Haack was staying and invited him to be his guest at two of the parties which were to follow the Mohammedan wedding of some of his wealthy friends. They first drove by the groom's house where the bride was safely entrenched.

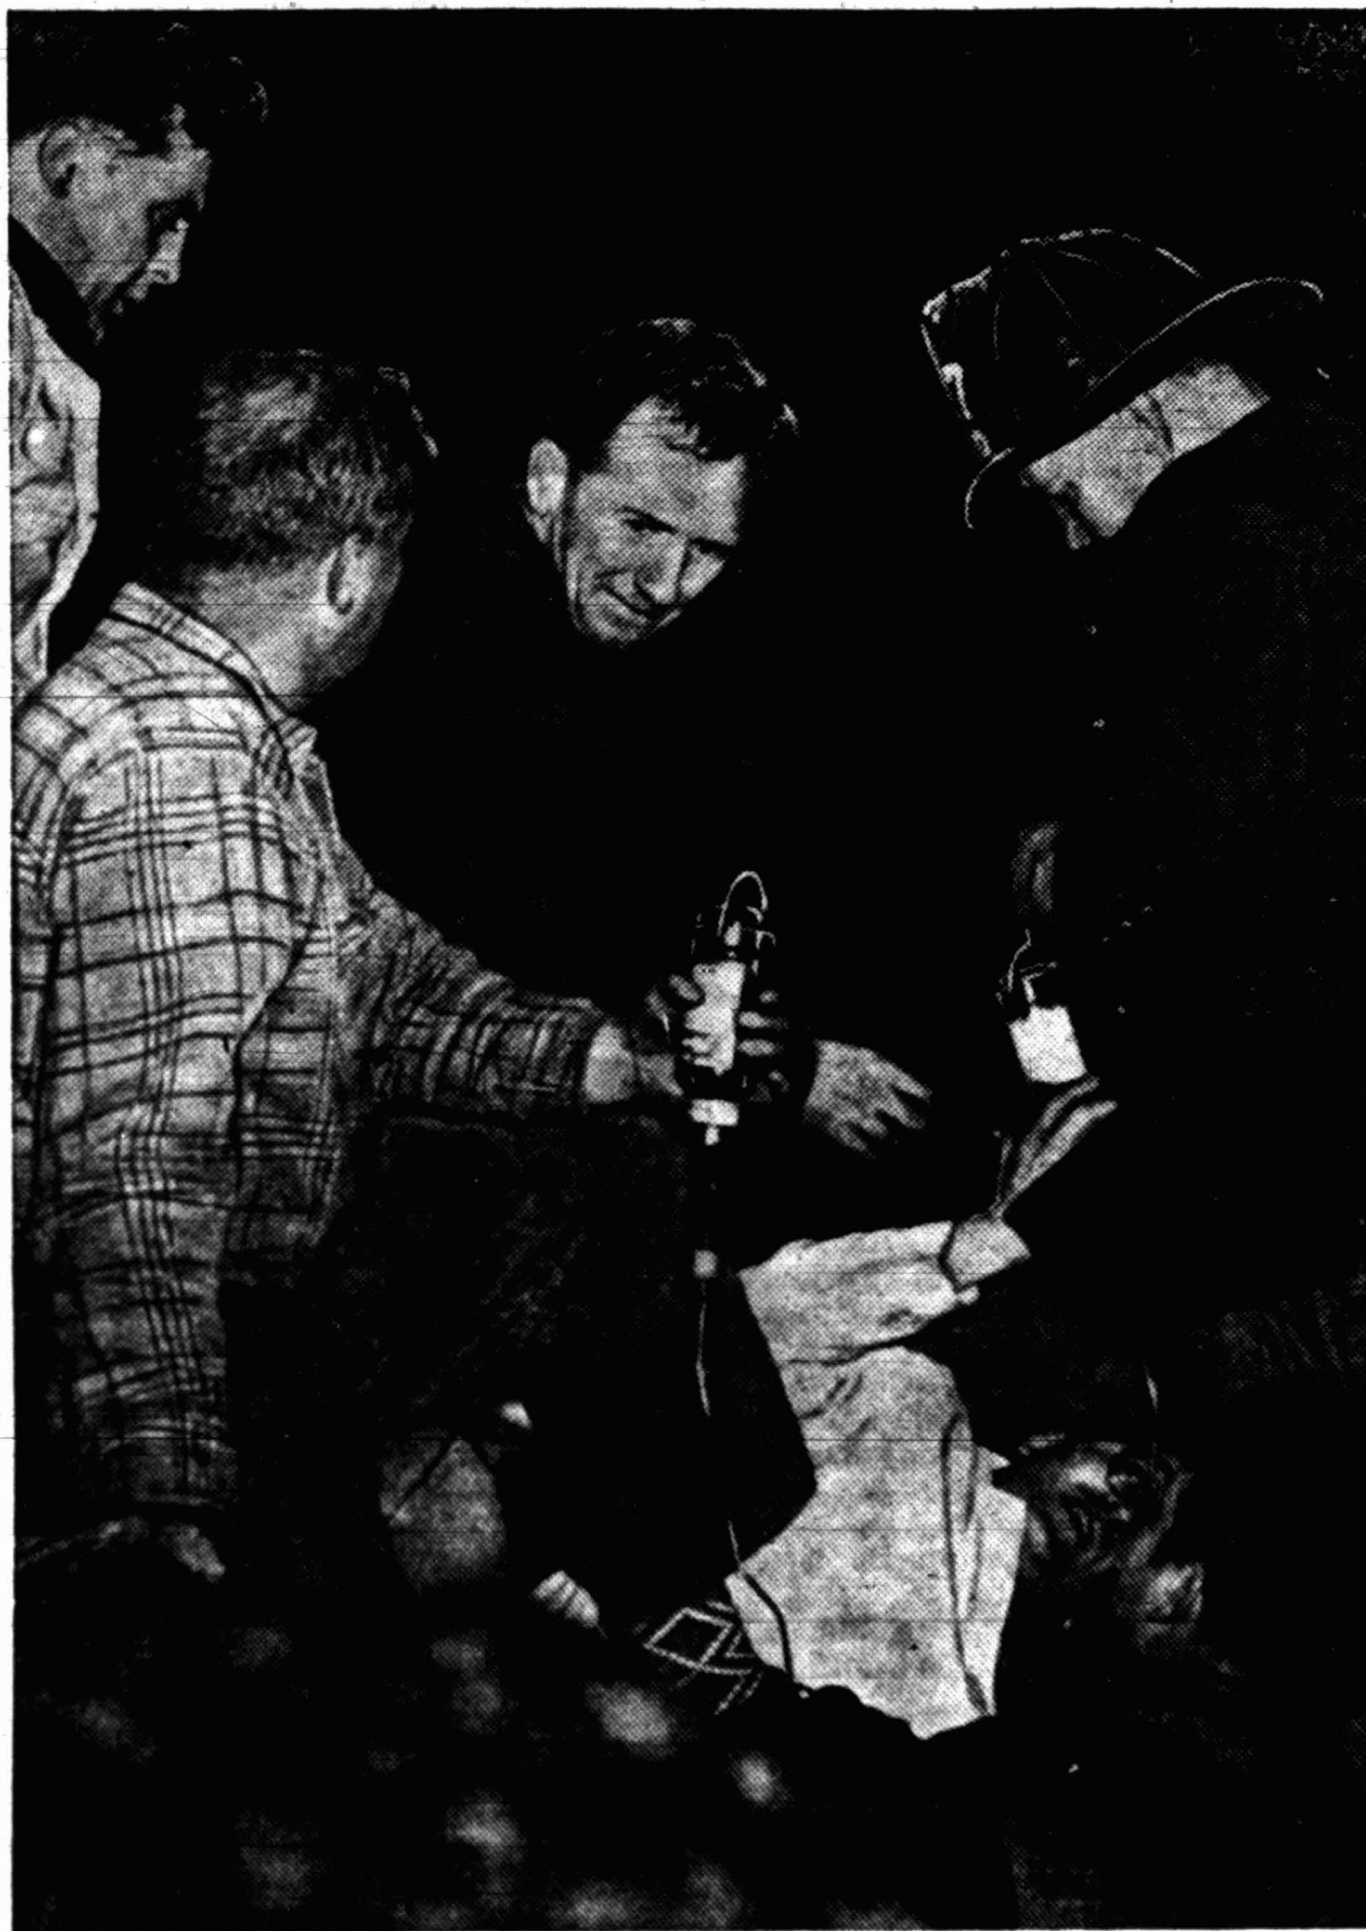

Outlined in electric lights were every corner, angle, door and window, the whole effect being that of a tremendous burst of glimmering splendor. They went on to an auditorium overflowing with guests. To quote Mr. Haack: "We were ushered to seats in front of the stage where an orchestra was whooping it up. Five of Cairo's finest artistes (belly-dancers) were performing. Being the only foreigner present I received a lot of attention. The program continued with acrobats, jugglers and magicians performing. In the audience there was much exchanging of water pipes which they called hubbly-bubblics. Since they were Mohammedans and trained to obey the Koran, there was no strong drink. But it was all great fun — and perhaps the groom's last fling."

The next evening after dining in an Egyptian home they proceeded again to the building which housed the first night's festivities.

Carrying huge floral pieces they walked down narrow crooked streets, passing shops ablaze with lights and showing much activity. This time on reaching their destination they found everything changed. Oriental carpets covered the floors. High-backed gold leafed chairs for the spectators. Tapestries on the walls and flowers everywhere. Two of the high sheiks from the mosques of Cairo were beautifully robed and took turns in chanting the Koran. Mr. Haack says: "It was a solemn occasion, deeply religious, and the only sound from the friends who filled the hall was a chorus of 'Allah', after a well-rendered verse from the Koran. It was infectious and I too responded with this praise to Allah."

In reviewing his impressions of the trip Ro-

Lengyel At Woman's Club

Emil Lengyel, feature writer, foreign correspondent and professor of history at New York University, will discuss TV Boon Or Hindrance at the March general meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, according to Mrs. H. Schroeder, program chairman.

Dr. Lengyel has recently returned from a Middle Eastern and European tour, and, is well-versed in news procurement and reporting.

Tea hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Rene W. Moore, Mrs. Fred Farley, Mrs. H. G. Thompson, Mrs. Arthur Templeton, Mrs. H. P. Underwood, Mrs. John D. Gates, Mrs. William Hales, and Mrs. Clarence Robinson. Dr. Zoe Johnston and Mrs. Glen F. Mason will pour.

Lynda Off Peak

Lynda Sargent has settled for the winter in the Cachagua at Prince's camp. When the first snows fell on Pinyon Peak in the Coast Range she left her fire watching station after six months in the Pinyon Peak tower where she guarded the forests east of King City, with a cat as her only companion, and the radio her only communication with the outside world.

Jimmie Hopper Home

Jimmie Hopper returned to his home on Sunday after two weeks in the Peninsula Community Hospital Annex fighting a bout with pneumonia. His wife, Elayne, had waiting for him to hear when he returned a new experimental recording of the ballad Cat Ballou sung by TV announcer Bob Paige. The music had been written by Elayne and words by Jimmie's old friend Roy Chanslor. Cat Ballou is also the title of Chanslor's latest book, to be published in April. The ballad contains a nut-shell version of the story of the novel.

Wands Exhibit at Town House

On Wednesday afternoon, Phyllis Calley will give a talk at Carmel Foundation Town House, telling some of the experiences she and her husband had while vagabonding through Mexico last fall. She will also show her Mexican water color sketches and pieces of Mexican pottery which they brought back. Tea will be served.

Alfred J. Wands, Western artist, will exhibit his work at Town House through the month of March. The exhibition will be opened on Tuesday afternoon with an artist's tea from 3:00 to 4:00 o'clock to which all are invited. Mr. Wands divides his time between Carmel and Denver, coming here to paint marines and making full use of the mountain scenery when he is in Colorado. He taught at one time in the Cleveland School of Art, and for 16 years served as head of the art department of the Colorado Woman's College. He has exhibited in many art museums, and his works are in the permanent collections of such institutions as the Cleveland Museum of Art, the San Francisco Palace of the Legion of Honor, and the Museum of Arts and Science in Brooklyn. He is a member of the Carmel Art Association.

Furlongs Here For Month

Colonel and Mrs. C. Wellington Furlong have driven west from their home in Scituate, Massachusetts, to spend a month on the peninsula. Colonel Furlong, author of Gateway to the Sahara and Let 'er Buck, the latter a book on the Oregon cowboy, is spending mornings of his visit here working on a new book and afternoons exploring and visiting friends. An intrepid explorer Colonel Furlong followed the trail in Africa which Stanley took on his journey to find Livingston, was the first white man to live on Tierra del Fuego, and has travelled extensively in Turkey and the Middle East. He retired from the Army of the United States after 34 years in the intelligence service and has held such diversified positions as art teacher at Cornell University, foreign correspondent and lecturer. While here he will lecture at the Stevenson School and make trips to San Diego and San Francisco to fill lecture engagements.

On their way from the East, Colonel and Mrs. Furlong stopped in Washington, D.C. where they were entertained by Admiral W. R. Furlong, a friend not a relative of the Colonel's. Their friendship grew out of a mutual interest in the raising of sunken ships. Admiral Furlong was in charge of the raising of sunken vessels in Pearl Harbor and Colonel Furlong was the finder of the frigate U.S.S. Philadelphia sunk off the coast of Tripoli 100 years before.

Other persons who entertained the Furlongs were Turkish Ambassador to the United States and Madame Hayder Gork.

Colonel Furlong also spent some time at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, arranging details of the permanent exhibit in the museum of his ethnological paintings of Tierra del Fuegan Indians.

Ryans Europe Bound

Major General and Mrs. William Ord Ryan are at present in New York waiting to sail on Saturday on an Army transport for possibly a year of travelling in Europe. In April General Ryan will attend a re-union in Italy of Air Corps officers stationed at Foggia during World War I. After the re-union gathering the Ryans plan to travel leisurely through European countries until the wish to return to Carmel seems more important than the attractions of Europe.

Fentons Have Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lowry Fenton are now parents of a boy and a girl. Their daughter, Juanita Chase Fenton, was born on February 27 at the Peninsula Community Hospital. The boy of the family is ten months old Lewis Fenton Lowry, Jr. Grandparents of the two babies are Mrs. Claire Goodwin of Oakland and Dr. and Mrs. Norman Fenton of Carmel. Juanita weighed a "husky" eight pounds, two ounces upon arrival in this world.

Mrs. Knox Ends Visit

Mrs. Anne Knox has returned to her home in San Francisco after two weeks spent in Carmel as the guest of three friends, Mrs. William Crane, Mrs. Verne Skillman and Mrs. Helen Berkey. During the time Mrs. Knox was here she was entertained extensively, "a party every day", and on Friday returned the hospitality of her friends by inviting 20 guests for luncheon, followed by bridge, at Spindrift restaurant. Mrs. Knox has been living in San Francisco for the past two years but before that was a Carmel resident for eight years.

Audubon Films and Field Trip

At the regular monthly meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock at Carmel High School Library, a film from Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, depicting the kelp industry, will be shown.

Conservation Chairman C. Edward Graves will show slides taken by the Sierra Club at Hetch Hetchy Dam at the time of the Christmas floods.

Dr. Robt. Parsons, president, announces that there will be three full scholarships given by this society to the Sierra Audubon Camp this summer.

The following morning (Saturday) the local Audubon Society will join with the Mt. Diablo Audubon Society at Moss Landing, meeting at Highway No. 1 and Construction Road at 10:00 o'clock. The Mt. Diablo Society is having a program and will spend the night at Asilomar. About 30 members of the society will make the trip.

Trip For Miss Reid, Mrs. Elliott

Miss Elizabeth Reid and her sister, Mrs. Florence Elliott are busy and excited this week packing and making final arrangements for a trip abroad. They leave on Tuesday, and after a short visit in Denver, Colorado, will proceed to New York and sail for England on the Cunard liner, Parthia, on March 6. A brief stay in England, and then Miss Reid and Mrs. Elliott will travel to Naples to board ship for a Mediterranean cruise. Then will come the serious business of really seeing Europe for several months and a visit with friends in England before the return trip to Carmel this summer.

Sylvia Heinzelman Engaged

Sylvia Heinzelman, daughter of Mrs. Verna Fassio, and Colin Kuster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kuster, are making plans to be married in the latter part of May.

Sylvia, a graduate of Carmel High School, spent one year at San Jose State before leaving for a year in Europe. She returned from the European trip in August and at present is employed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in their Monterey office.

Colin, also graduated from Carmel High School, attended Monterey Peninsula College, the City College of Los Angeles and spent two years in the Air Force.

Third Carmalita Born

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott (Carmalita Benson) are announcing the birth of a daughter, Aurelia Carmalita, who weighed six pounds, 12 ounces on arrival on February 21 in the University of Wisconsin Hospital in Madison; the hospital in which her mother was also born. Her grandmothers are Mrs. Carmalita Benson and Mrs. Walter Scott of Carmel. Mrs. Benson was in Madison to welcome her grandchild, the third girl in the family to be named Carmalita.

Walter and Carmalita Scott met at the Wharf Theater and following their marriage left for Madison, where Walter is in charge of lighting sets at the State Educational television station, WHA, on the University campus.

Carmalita in writing about the birth of Carmalita III, says, "though we miss the peninsula, life seems wonderfully tremendous... if a bit bewildering at the moment."

Gay and Warren Masten Home

Week end before last Warren Masten came home to see his mother, Mrs. Hildreth Hare, on completion of Navy boot camp training in San Diego. Warren was the second boy in the United States to be drafted into the Navy under their new policy of taking draftees. He is now a yeoman stationed at Hueneme in Southern California. After his 24 months duty in the Navy is completed he is planning to go to college in Sweden.

Gay Masten came home from San Francisco this week end to see her mother play the part of Lady Strawholme in Fresh Fields at the Theater in the Round. Gay is a very busy girl in the city as she attends medical secretarial courses all day and works for the Bank of America in the evenings.

Owings Aerie

Margaret and Nathaniel Owings are proving that the impossible may be accomplished. They are constructing a house on Grimes Point, immediately south of the Fuller Ranch on the Coast Highway below Big Sur. The narrow rocky promontory on which they are building rises abruptly several hundred feet above the ocean and commands a view of miles of the coast both to the north and south. The cliffs have been blasted to make a niche into which concrete footings have been laid and upon which the dwelling will be built almost as part of the cliff itself. Retaining walls are being made of pieces of the blasted cliff, and almost all growing vegetation is being preserved so that the house will be in completely natural setting. It will be possible to look down from the Owings house on a beach where hundreds of sea lions cavort and to watch the small fishing boats anchored in the shelter of Pfeiffer's Cove to the north.

Unusual building problems are not new for Nathaniel Owings, member of the architectural firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, designers of the Lever Brothers Building in New York, the Engineering Building at the Naval Post Graduate School, the much disputed Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs and the Stanford Master Plan.

Mrs. Owings, is artist Margaret Wentworth. It was in her house at Carmel Highlands that the New Group painters held successful shows several years ago. She has an unusual flair for artistic decoration in the interior of the homes she occupies, and her Carmel friends and the Sur residents are watching with interest the combined creative efforts of architect Nathaniel and artist Margaret Owings at Grimes Point.

Party At Pirate's Cove

Mrs. Alice Barker was hostess to several hundred guests on Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Pirate's Cove (Rocky Point Lodge). It was a double celebration as Mrs. Barker, new operator of the Lodge, was displaying her re-decoration and welcoming all who had helped in her venture, and S. J. Nickle, owner, was celebrating completion, that day, of the purchase of the property.

Hors d'oeuvres and punch were served from a long table placed in the dining room which is softly and indirectly lighted from panels placed on the sides of the room below the ceiling, fronted with Japanese paper into which have been pressed leaves. The light from behind silhouettes the leaves and gives a most attractive, subdued and artistic effect for the diners to appreciate.

A huge fire blazed behind the glimmering brass fender on the hearth of the cocktail room and singing minded guests such as Frank Lloyd and Toby Street gathered with changing groups for close harmony vocalizing around the grand piano.

Each and every guest stopped at some time during the party to admire the swirling waves breaking over the lighted rocks below the Lodge and early in the evening to admire the magnificent sunset.

High School students found this trip very beneficial to them.

A group of Carmel students are busy with their individual preparations for the Lions Club Speech Contest. Under the supervision of Mr. Raymond Gere a speech club has been formed and he is assisting these students with their speech. The speeches will be presented by the students to the Lions Club in about two weeks.

Totheroh On Jury For Phelan Award

Playwright Dan Totheroh, former Monterey Peninsula resident, is one of the three members of the Jury of Award which will select the winning candidates for the Phelan Awards in Drama for 1956. The others are Fred O. Harris, chairman of the Department of Dramatic Art at the University of California and J. Fenton McKenna, in charge of dramatics at San Francisco State College.

Totheroh wrote and produced the Centennial Pageant for Monterey.

The three awards of $500, $400, and $300 were provided in a bequest made by the late Senator Phelan, to bring about further development of native talent in California in various fields of literature and art.

The awards, offered this year in the field of drama, are open to men and women who were born in California, and who are between 20 and 40 years old. They are required to enter plays, full length or one acts, on or before the closing date of March 15, 1956.

Applications and additional information may be obtained from the office of the James D. Phelan Awards, 812 Grant Building, San Francisco 3, California.

The Time Has Come.

By Kippy Stuart

Nature has brought a miracle to my garden. For two weeks, I have been observing this miracle. Seated in my picture window, I can just see a Golden Emblem climbing rose bush. First, one tiny bud, tight sheathed in its green calix, appeared. I watched this bud. Slowly, the tiny thing began to expand. Each morning I sat in the window watching... watching. We had two days of bright sunshine, and gradually the bud increased until a tiny golden color appeared at the tip.

One green petal of the calix opened. I could now see the new flower developing. While I was watching, one of our temperamental weather changes suddenly hit my garden. While I looked, that petal of the green calix slowly closed. It was exactly as though a storm window had been erected. I became so fascinated I could hardly leave my window. This process repeated itself time and again. Sunshine, and the calix opened; stormy weather and the calix closed. Today is warm and mild. Just now I took another peep and all the petals of the green calix are wide open and the full blown rose is about to appear.

I still run to my window during the entire acts of my busy life, and for the first time I feel that I am permitted to observe how Nature protects her young.

This has been going on since time immemorial. Why did I not observe this before? Either life got in my way, or I was too lazy to take the time to observe this miracle.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON
Man's God-given strength, assurance, and ability will be emphasized at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man" is the Golden Text from Daniel (10:19): "O man greatly beloved, fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong."

Among the selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (203:13): "Spiritual perception brings out the possibilities of being, destroys reliance on aught but God, and so makes man the image of his Maker in deed and in truth."

Scriptural selections will include the following from 11 Corinthians (3:4,5): "And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward: Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God."

land Haack reveals a deep sympathy with many of the native tribes. He says: "When a man gets only $9.00 to $12.00 a month for hard physical labor in a mine and has to support his wife and children who live in a mud hut in abysmal filth, and squalor while he lives apart from them in a compound, is it any wonder that he becomes rebellious and his wife turns to prostitution?" Haack tells of the Mau Maus and the epidemics they suffered at the turn of the century when a series of tragedies debilitated them and stunted them mentally. In speaking of the atrocities they practice on the Europeans he says: "Well, one can't excuse it but one can at least understand it."

out against a church request." Robert Forbes, organist of the church, felt that bell music as played by the electronic carillon would be "an addition to the musical life of the community." He upheld the church's side well during the hour long commission discussion.

Mrs. Comstock stated that "the peace and quiet of Carmel should be preserved." Mrs. Kiplinger was opposed to any but organ music emanating from a church. Mrs. Josselyn felt it was "simple to grant a permit," but felt that citizens should be protected by the planning commission as they might be reticent about opposing infractions on their rights.

All the Commissioners were displeased with the tone of the present bell being used by All-Saints' and the three aye votes were given on the promise that if the carillon were installed it would be better than the ringing of the bell before services and on Feast days.

Second testing of the new interim ordinance took place when the Commission told Robert Stanton that he must definitely have all plans, plot or building, approved by them as to type of architecture, conformity to existing adjacent development and use of building, even though he had owned his C-1 property for a long time. Stanton was granted approval of his plot plan for a two story garden hotel, to be constructed on the Southeast corner of Casanova Street and Ocean Avenue with units not to exceed 24 and parking provided for 16 cars.

Dr. E. R. Ranker, represented by James Pruitt of Comstock Associates, presented building plans for Ranker's proposed hotel on land now occupied by Sunset Nursery. The E-shaped building with two-story frontage on Mission and San Carlos streets will have three story construction of the northern part with parking stalls on the lower floor. The three story construction will not be visible from the street. Type of construction will be stucco with wood, Tudor style. The Planning Commission held off approval of the building for study by the plans and architectural committee.

Joseph Bileci was granted permission to build a trellis starting from his Mediterranean Market building on Mission street around the corner of the property on Sixth Street, thus enclosing an area where he may eventually serve food outside.

Bob Read wished to enclose an area at the Golden Bough Theatre and was given permission to erect walls, similar to those now built on the East side of the Golden Bough patio, at the North and South ends of the roofed area, thus providing a warm waiting place for patrons facilitating control of ticket sales, serving of coffee and the general improvement of the service of the theatre to patrons.

H. K. Poffenberger, also represented by Pruitt, had his plans for a two story addition to Tally Ho Inn held over for further study.

A letter of resignation was read from Planning Commission Secretary Peter Mawdsley and Larry Rose was unanimously chosen to take his place. After two and a half hours the meeting was adjourned till March 14 to complete unfinished business.

REGISTRATION FOR BOND ELECTION CLOSES MAR. 3

Two dates should loom big in the eyes of the voters in Carmel's Unified School District—Saturday, March 3 and Thursday, April 26, according to Roderick Clayton, president of the P.T.A. The first named is the last day on which to register for the bond issue vote to be decided the last week in April. If you want further information on either registration or the school bond vote, call the Carmel High School — 7-6483. Or, if you wish to register, go to Stallings Stamp Store on Dolores, just north of Sixth or Carmel Realty. Registrars will be glad to give you information regarding your voting status.

Rollin Wells

Rollin Henry Wells, 75, died unexpectedly on Monday evening at his home on Santa Rita Street following a heart attack.

Mr. Wells was born on June 14, 1880, in Marinette, Wisconsin. He moved to Carmel six and one half years ago from Minneapolis where he had been in the insurance business for many years, associated with the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company and with the White and Odell Agency of St. Paul, Minnesota.

He was treasurer of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society at the time of his death and while living in Minneapolis had been a member of the Rotary Club.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Theodora Wells of Carmel; a daughter, Mrs. Jeanette Wells McDaniel of St. Paul; a sister, Mrs. Jean Dunkelberger of Fargo, North Dakota; and a grandson, James Norton McDaniel of St. Paul.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Minneapolis. Paul's Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Mary Seifert

Mrs. Mary Seifert died at noon on Monday in a local rest home following a short illness. She was 90 years old.

Mrs. Seifert had been living in Altadena since 1953 when she left Carmel after almost ten years residence here. She had returned to Carmel recently to visit her son, Edward M. Seifert, Jr., and it was while visiting him that she became ill.

Mrs. Seifert was born on August 13, 1865, in Brooklyn, New York. She was the widow of the late Edward M. Seifert who died in 1932.

Besides her son, of Carmel, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. H. R. Davidson of Carmel, Mrs. Elsie Bolton of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Dorothy Nette of Altadena; four grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Seifert were held on Wednesday morning in the Little Chapel-of-the-Sea Crematorium, the Reverend Carleton White of the Church of Religious Science officiating. Paul's Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
O. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

OUTDOOR NEWS BULLETIN

Every other week the Wildlife Management Institute (709 Wire Bldg., Washington 5, D.C.) issues a 5 or 6 page multigraphed publication, called the Outdoor News Bulletin. There is no subscription price and presumably anyone interested in conservation can have his name placed on the mailing list. The items are written from a standpoint sympathetic to the cause of conservation and are quite generally approved by the various conservation groups.

Here is a sampling from the issue of Feb. 10 covering five major items reported on.

Item No. 1. An announcement of the 21st Annual North American Wildlife Conference sponsored by the Wildlife Management Institute, which will be held in New Orleans March 5-7. Advance registration indicates that more than 1,000 conservation leaders from all over the country will attend. It has become over the years one of the most effective instruments for coordinating the various conservation efforts throughout the country. Any interested person may attend.

Item No. 2. The killing of fish in Montana's Yellowstone River by aerial spraying of DDT this summer to control an infestation of spruce budworms in a forested section of the watershed. It was probably the result of the destruction of aquatic insects that make up the food supply of the fish. Research is needed to determine what to do about it.

Item No. 3. A new attack on Olympic National Park financed by certain lumber and pulp manufacturing interests. There have been two previous attacks of this kind, the last one some 7 or 8 years ago, both won by the national park defenders. This time it is spearheaded by a public relations firm, Roderic Olzendam and Associates, using "an erratic missile, fueled by a curious assemblage of allegations", to quote from the Bulletin. Rayonier Incorporated seems to be the firm that is putting up most of the money. They have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in full page color advertisements in various national magazines attacking the park. Their customers are of course paying for it.

Item No. 4. Secretary of the Interior McKay has given the Army official notice that he is against their attempt to take over 10,700 acres of Wichita Mountains National Wildlife Refuge in Oklahoma for target practice purposes.

Item No. 5. Florida sportsmen are backing their Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission in an effort to save a valuable marsh area of some 100 square miles along the northwest shore of Lake Okeechobee from destruction by damming. It seems to be a fight against the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District.

And so the conservation picture unfolds. There seems to be always a variety of problems coming up. Cooperation between the various conservation groups is the only solution. Any one group working alone against what is nearly always some form of organized and well-financed opposition would not get very far. Happily this cooperation is working very well at the present time.
